ARMY AND NAVY OUTFITS RUSHED

Munitions of War Being Forwarded From Coast to Honolulu and Manila.

MORE ANTI-JAPANESE LAWS.

President Roosevelt Is Excited And Ambassador Takahira Investigating The Situation.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 5.—There is an unusual activity in naval circles on the Pacific Coast. The bark Mohican sails today for Honolulu, carrying two disappearing guns for Pearl Harbor, while the steamship Asia, which also sails today, will carry two hundred submarine mines and twenty-five hundred cases of ammunition for Manila.

The transport Sheridan, due to sail for Honolulu today, will take three thousand tons of army supplies for that port.

OFFENDING LAW PASSED.

SACRAMENTO, February 5.—The resolution introduced in the Assembly to compel the children of Japanese residents of the State to attend separate schools has passed by a vote of forty-six to twenty-six.

ROOSEVELT STIRRED UP.

WASHINGTON, February 5.—Immediately on the receipt of the news that the California Assembly had passed the Japanese school segregation resolution, President Roosevelt telegraphed to Governor Gillett that the action just taken was the most offensive of all the offensive bills. He appealed to the Governor to veto it.

GOVERNOR AGAINST IT.

SACRAMENTO, February 5.—Governor Gillett will send a special message to the Assembly today asking for a reconsideration of yesterday's action. He will urge the Assembly to stand by the Administration.

WASHINGTON ASTOUNDED.

WASHINGTON, February 5.—The news of the action taken yesterday by the California Assembly has created surprise and consternation among the officials here.

Ambassador Takahira has called on Secretary of State Bacon to consult over the situation which has been created.

OREGON JOINS AGITATION.

SALEM, Oregon, February 5.—A resolution was introduced into the State Senate yesterday to memorialize Congress to include Japanese and Hindus in the provisions of the Exclusion Act, which now applies to Chinese.

VERDICT PROBABLY GUILTY.

GIBRALTAR, February 5.—It is unofficially understood here that the court martial has found that the specifications of the charge against Captain Quartrough, of the battleship Georgia, have been proved. He was charged with having been intoxicated during a reception given to the officers of some of the battleships.

ART LEAGUE PREPARES FOR DRAMATIC EVENT

As was announced in last Saturday's Star, the Kiloheana Art League will give a dramatic and patriotic entertainment on the evening of February 23rd as part of the official Washington Day celebrations.

Preparations are going on apace to make this evening one to be long remembered, and the members of the success. Besides the three act comedy, "Pygmalion and Galatea," a curtain raiser, "Washington's Birthday," will be presented.

The Cherry Tree, which figures so strongly in the old Washington and the cherry-tree story which we all know—in part—was planted on the day Washington's father and mother were married, and transplanted on the day George was born. George had promised his father that he would not enter the King's service so long as the cherry tree stood, and when Lawrence, George's brother, persuaded him to join the Navy, the tree stood in his way. So he took his little hatchet and cut it down.

The details of the affair are brought out in a very telling way in the sketch, which is an admirable piece of work, and well worth while.

THE HOUSE AFTER ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 15.—Members of the House appropriations committee are disappointed that they did not know when preparing the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill that President Roosevelt's barber, William B. Dulaney, was carried on the government rolls as an accountant in the office of the auditor for the Navy Department, and that Mrs. Roosevelt's private messenger, a man named Jackson, was carried on the rolls of the bureau of engraving and printing.

It was said in positive terms this morning that had this information been in the possession of the committee when the bill was drafted these cases would have been looked into, and, beyond all question, what are designated as violations of civil service law would have been stopped.

TALK OF THE HOUSE.

The Dulaney case has occupied the attention of members of Congress for some days. Jackson's status came up for the first time yesterday in an informal way.

A reporter for The Star was told this morning that Jackson while acting as Mrs. Roosevelt's private messenger had been carried on the census office rolls at $720 a year, but not long ago had been transferred to the bureau of engraving and printing under the Treasury Department, at $20. Dulaney was transferred on the rolls from a $900 job to the post paying $1,600 in the navy auditor's office of the Treasury.

Yesterday a member of Congress desirous of obtaining information on the Jackson case called up the Treasury Department, and was informed that Jackson was assigned to the bureau of engraving and printing, but that it is supposed he is "still at the White House."

Members of the House appear inclined to criticize the President for what they term his "open and flagrant violations of the law and the civil service regulations," while sharply taking to task members of Congress for matters not in violation of law and which, sentiment in the Capitol has it, are trifling by comparison.

A quiet inquiry is now in progress in the Dulaney and Jackson cases and with reference to many more similar propositions that may turn up. Something may develop along this line before long.

DULANEY IS VIRGINIA NEGRO.

William B. Dulaney is a colored man from Alexandria, Va. Until last March he was carried on the rolls of the White House as a messenger, with a salary of $900 a year. In that month the President had him promoted to a clerkship under the auditor for the Navy Department at a salary of $1,600 a year.

Before they were revised the civil service regulations contained a section which provided that an employee of the White House could be transferred to another department in at the White House. Two years' service at the White House immediately preceding such transfer was condition precedent. But when the rules were revised that provision was left out.

Comment was made upon the matter at the time. It was said at the White House that as soon as the President went to Oyster Bay for the summer Dulaney would assume his duties under the auditor for the Navy Department. But when the President went to Oyster Bay Dulaney went also. Now his case is attracting attention again on account of the recommendations forwarded to Congress by the auditor for the Navy Department that more clerks be provided for his office. His case, says the auditor, is insufficient.

AUDITOR DOES NOT FIND IT STRANGE.

When asked about the Dulaney case this morning Auditor Tyler, who is also a colored man, said there was nothing strange about it. He knew of a number of cases of government employees assigned to special duty outside the offices on whose rolls they were carried.

Asked if Dulaney ever came to his office, the auditor was non-committal. He added, however, that if Dulaney were doing special duty he would not have to come there—not even to draw his pay. He could do that through the disbursing officer of the Treasury. "We expect to have him here permanently in a little while, though," said the auditor.

He evidently meant that Dulaney would be in his midst on or about March 4 next.
